IN THIS ISSUE

Mr Scott-Evans writes ...

Do not be anxious about anything!

This week I have hosted meetings with all our sixth formers where they have had the opportunity to quiz members of the local community on matters of faith. This has included two visits from Pastor Peter Jordan from Sawyers Church.

Pastor Jordan spoke of times in his life when he has tackled issues of anxiety and how God has helped him. He particularly referred to some verses in Philippians where St Paul writes: 'do not be anxious about anything'. Paul tells us that in every situation we should bring our requests to God with thanksgiving.

The text continues that we should focus our attention on the positives specifically whatever is true, noble, right, pure, lovely, admirable or praiseworthy. If we put this into practice 'the God of peace will be with [us]'.

I was struck by this as, to be honest, I have had a pretty tough week. At times I have felt a little overwhelmed and anxious. I am sure that we all have those weeks!

And yet, as I reflect on the past five days, my calmest and happiest moments have been when I have been focused on the positives rather than trying to tackle the anxieties. These lessons with our sixth formers for example have been real highlights! I have sat there impressed and pleased at the intellectual questions our students have raised about matters of faith, religion and spirituality.

Other times of real peace and calm have been when I have spoken to all the Year 7s about their Head Teacher's Challenge projects. It is a joy for me to talk to them about their experiences and engage with them about what they learned and enjoyed. Madison Moon for example has pulled together a most impressive folder. Sitting looking at all the things that she and her peers have done over the summer including her fabulous spaghetti bolognaise take my mind 100 miles away from the troubles and worries that I am dealing with.

Through the power of prayer (and some tasty sugary snacks which my PA keeps bringing in), I have tackled my to do list as well. I hope you are all coping well, but if not, here are my emotional well-being tips for today:

- Take a look at Philippians 4 v 4-9.
- Pray about your anxieties and worries. God knows what you are going through and wants to help.
- Focus on the pure, lovely, admirable and praiseworthy. Particularly when it comes to our students, there is plenty to enjoy.
- Eat cake!

Have a lovely weekend.

Reading for Learning

You may be aware that the school is taking part in a new 'Reading for Learning' project. Students are now once a week, reading for 20 minutes in a lesson. The reading material is provided and is relevant to the subject. This could be an article or a piece of fiction. Students don't need to prepare they just turn up and read. After the 20 minutes is complete the teacher will discuss the content of the reading material.

I really hope that the students are enjoying the time they spend reading in lessons. Reading around their favourite subjects and then reflecting is a great way to understand wider reading.

Reading for Learning next week will be Period 1 on Tuesday 5th October.

Made at Becket Keys Design & Technology Department

Picking GCSE options is always a big decision for Year 9 student. What has been lovely to see, is the new year 10 design and technology students settling in so well, and already demonstrating the characteristics and skills needed to develop into strong and creative designers. Our first mini project to see design creativity and practical ability, was to design and make a toothbrush without any real brief or direction. As a whole, the class produced some lovely work, with some very high-quality finishes to the Styrofoam material that we used to fabricate our prototype.

Although it was a difficult decision, and with some input from myself and a few sixth form students, the 'top' three were selected on a combination of creativity as well as quality of finish.

Not only were there brilliantly made prototypes, but some creative and well-presented design ideas well. As a first task in lesson one, some great work has been produced demonstrating the function and aesthetics of the proposed design idea. Again, I commend the whole class, but a few stood out as can be seen below.

Ryan O'Flaherty has created an interesting design here and managed to produce a model of a very high quality. The idea comes with an angled stand for ease of use and display. The concept is also different to any toothbrush on the market which is always an interesting talking point.

Ellison Randle has managed to produce a handle that takes the users fingers into consideration with this very professional looking and symmetrical handle. Again, another creative and interesting design.

Theo focused on comfort within the hand and managed to design a handle that fits surprisingly snugly in the hand.

Reuben went for a more functional approach with the ability to 'load' the toothpaste in the handle itself, eliminating the need to keep squeezing the tube.

Mandarin Department

The Mid–Autumn Festival, also known as Moon Festival or Mooncake Festival, is a traditional festival celebrated in China. It is the second-most important holiday after the Chinese New Year with a history dating back 3,000 years.

The Mid-Autumn is on 15th August lunar month each year. This year it was on 21st of September. On this day, the Chinese believe that the moon is at its brightest and fullest size, coinciding with harvest time in the middle of Autumn.

In our Mandarin lessons with Year 7,8 and 9 MEP classes, Miss Lin and Mrs Zhang shared the legendary story of the Mid-Autumn Festival and explained to the students that Chinese families normally get together on this day to have a feast, followed by moongazing and eating the festival snack, mooncakes, a rich pastry typically filled with sweet-bean or lotus-seed paste or other savoury filling. The round shape of the mooncake symbolises the full moon and the family reunion.

In one of the clubs, the Year 7 students made a mooncake craft with a message inside to themselves. All our Year 7, 8 and 9 Mandarin students were given the task to design a poster about the traditional Chinese festival. And the Year 9 students were also given the choice of making delicious mooncakes. It is difficult even for Chinese people to make them because of the complicated process. But the mooncakes made by Year 9 were extremely impressive.

The work submitted showed the students had done lots of research about the festival. Miss Lin and I are amazed by the high standard of the work that our students produced! The posters are not only informative, but also visually appealing, and they showcase the artistic skills our students have.

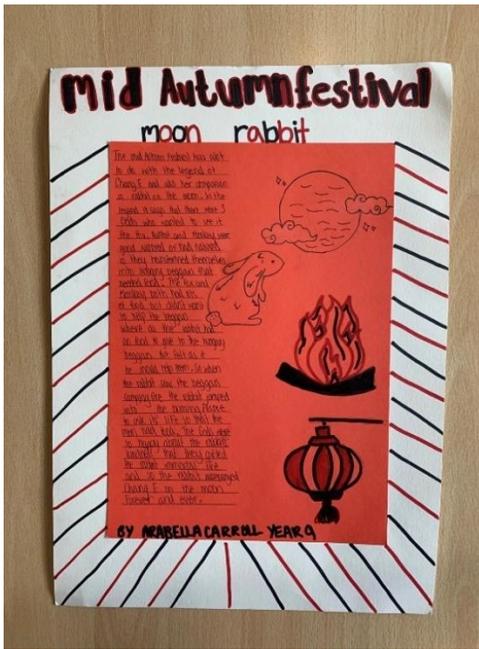

We are incredibly proud of our students!

Below are a few of the fantastic posters that were submitted, and the delicious mooncake made by our students.

Food Department

This week in the food department our Year 12 sixth form students made dumplings. It was their first practical lesson since the start of what has been a very busy start of term. They thoroughly enjoyed making them, as you can see from the photos.

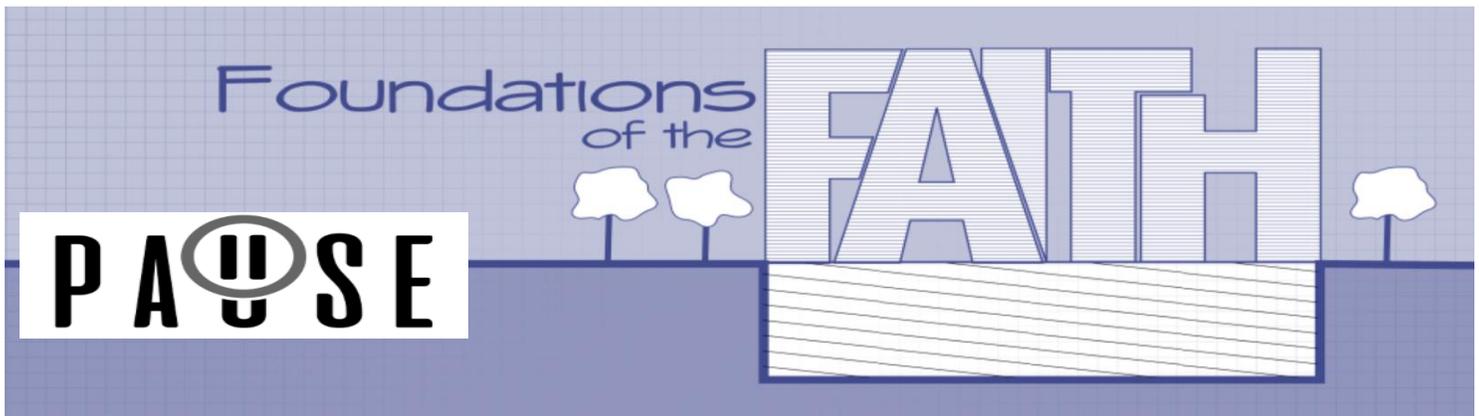

It was so nice to see them practising their skill in the art of dumpling making, I even had students trying out different shapes.

Please find the link with the recipe we used for this lesson if you would like to have a go at making these at home. Enjoy!

A distinctive Sixth Form offer – Foundations of Faith

With our Sixth Form Open Evening on 12th October, I thought I would write about one distinctive aspect of our Sixth Form offer. Not only does our outstanding Sixth Form focus on securing top university places and high-quality apprenticeships for our students, but it also cares holistically for every individual; developing their character and spirituality, based on our school values and the Church of England Vision for Education.

Visit our Sixth Form John Wraw Chapel

An example of this is provided by our Year 13 Tutorial Collective Worship course entitled 'Foundations in Faith'. The sessions give plenty of time to ponder those deeper questions of life. Through discussion and reflection, students can see how what they believe about God really does affect their lives. There are lots of practical ideas to act upon, as learning and living has been carefully woven together. Each theme begins with learning, focusing on the things that the Bible and Christian doctrine teach us about God, His acts and His plans and purposes, but finishes by looking at the impact that knowledge should have on our day to day lives. There are also opportunities to consider what the lifestyle we are called to teaches us about God.

Wherever students and teachers are on their faith journey, they can think carefully about the ideas presented, read carefully, prayerfully and actively. When they come across things that interest them or challenge them, they are encouraged to take time to reflect and consider changes in their lifestyle (their way of thinking, acting and relating).

There is always more to learn and think more deeply about, but remember, while learning and understanding is important, it is living and doing and, perhaps most vitally, relating to the God of love who is at the centre of our school and longs to be the centre of our lives. For our Year 13s, it is hoped that the reflective journal they produce whilst completing this course will be something to take with them, whatever path their lives take after Becket Keys. We also hope that they will have the reassurance of God's love and ours.

Becket Keys Church of England School is built on Christ. May these strong foundations be with our students always.

Our desire for our students is that they experience 'life in all its fullness'. John 10 v10
